

Workforce Development Safety Bulletin

Resources available to help you navigate your workplace.

Environmental issues CAN affect your workplace. If ever you are experiencing symptoms such as coughing, difficulty breathing, dizziness, headaches, nausea, or throat/eye irritation, ensure to take the following steps:

- Report the symptoms to management immediately for proper documentataion.

- Inform management that they believe the symptoms may be work-related.

- Request a medical evaluation through the workers' compensation process.

- Complete the necessary workers' compensation paperwork, including the DWC-1 claim form (which the employer must provide within one working day).

- Seek emergency medical care immediately if symptoms are severe or worsening.
